Corporation Court.

[Judge L. C. Barley presiding.] The June term of the Corporation Court began this morning. In address ing the grand jury Judge Barley said: Gentlemen of the grand jury: This is a regular grand jury term of this court, and you have been summoned, as required by law, as the grand jury. constitute the investigating arm of this court, and as such a duty devolves upon you to carefully inquire into all matters presented to you by the court, the Commonwealth's Attorney or which may come to your knowledge. Complaint has been made to me that the laws of this State against gambling, the sale of liquor without a license and on Sunday are being frequently violated in this city. As to the truth or falsity of such com plaints I have no personal knowledge. Your very competent Commonwealth's Attorney, I believe, has striven hard to bring the violators of law to justice, but as his duties do not comprehend either those of a police agent or a grand jury, and only begin where yours conclude, it is difficult for him to ferret out and bring to trial such persons, with-the Constable, Commissioner of the Revenue and many of the police force. You meeting of the Grand Lodge of Odd may also have summoned before you any Fellows, which meets in that city toother persons whom you may deem necessary for your investigations and require them to testify. It is also your duty to inquire into and true presentment make of any other violations of the revenue city. He was removed to the Mary of any other violations of the revenue laws, including the sale of liquors to minors. If such violations of the law as complained of are being carried on in liquors to minors. The condition is critical. Maj. Wallace is well-known in Alexandria and his many friends here this city, the perpetrators thereof should hope he may soon recover from his illhe brought to speedy justice. It is a cluty which you owe to yourselves and to the community in which you live to give this matter your careful and painstaking investigation, and let not the question of time enter into your inquiries. Knowing that you are business men and will anxious to get through this work as speedily as possible, I will make the time of the Court suit your conearlier in the morning or adjourn it later in the evening, if by so doing it will in any way facilitate your inquiries or before will the convenience of the convenie venience and will convene court either will in any way facilitate your inquiries Church or better suit the convenience of the Cutler members of this jury, and to that end I will adjourn you over from time to sioner of the Revenue for taxation a
